From the book

With Wall Street already reeling from the demise of one market investment firm and the related collapse of another, investors are looking for more turbulence as the housing crisis continues to hammer the nation's financial system.

The Dow Jones Industrial average plummeted 300 points Monday — the most since the aftermath of the Sept. 11, 2001, attacks — after investment bank Lehman Bros. Holdings Inc. became the biggest company in the bankruptcy protection and Bank of America selling them the demise of one market investment firm and the related collapse of another, investors are looking for more turbulence as the housing crisis continues to hammer the nation's financial system.

The Dow Jones Industrial average plummeted 300 points Monday — the most since the aftermath of the Sept. 11, 2001, attacks — after investment bank Lehman Bros. Holdings Inc. became the biggest company in the bankruptcy protection and Bank of America Corp. announced it was acquiring Merrill Lynch & Co.

The market's reaction today would long be large part as what happens with former American International Group Inc. — the latest financial firm struggling to stay afloat — and
